The New Mexican is the oldest newspaper in New Mexico. It is sent to every postoffice in the territory, and has a large and growing circulation among the intelligent and progressive people of he southwest.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 28.

For Governor of New Mexico from June 7, 1901, to June 7, 1905, or until statehood is attained, Miguel A. Otero.

The fact that the Boer leaders are talking surrender is evidence that, despite their astonishing activity, ther feel the noose drawn very tightly around their necks. They have done their share to immortalize their nation, and have gained for it the respect of their conquerors, as well as the rest of the world

Unfortunate Turkey gets into one scrape after another. Some of its soidiers have grossly insulted members of the British embassy, and John Bull who is in an ugly mood at present, demands immediate reparation. The reparation, as usual, will consist in pronises which are not even a guarantee of good intentions.

Governor Otero's annual report, at though not yet ready for circulation, is already doing good for New Mexico, Althe influential metropolitan newspaper: of the country are publishing long extracts from it, which set New Mexico before the world in the most favorable national affairs

Mrs. Lulu Jenkins, an Illinois woman has received $4000 damages for the lynching of her husband. This suggests method for putting an end to lynchings. Let each county in which a lynching occurs be fined $100,000, the fine to be collected from the citizens equally, unless the lynchers are promptly punished, and public sentiment will soon put an end to a disgrace which should not be carried over into the new century.

Some wiseacre has suggested the idea of planting along the railroad lines of the west catalog and other trees. That would be very pretty, and may be possible in the east, but in the west, where railroads cut through miles and miles of land without water, it would double the present expenses of railroads to keep trees growing along their roadbeds. The day may come, however, that most of this arid region will be reclaimed, and then such a project might be feasible.

The Chinese are not quite ready to tions, submitted by the powers. The Chinaman, like the Turk, always makes an effort to gain time with the idea that something may turn up in his favor. He suggests an economic alliance and the regulation of tariffs by a permanent European commission

This commercial co-operation, he thinks, might lead to a gradual reduction of armament. He cites the instance of the twenty-six states of Germany which each had a standing army. The 'zoliverein" or tariff union was created which led to the unity of Germany, the elief of the smaller states from main aining a standing army, and made Bermany the leading manufacturing ation of the continent. Thus he arrues that a tariff union would unite Europe into one nation with six times he number of inhabitants of the United States and a strength that could not only resist but conquer the United States industrially, commercially, and, if necessary, in time of war,

Make the Most of Our Attractions.

One of the speakers at the educaional association meeting last evening referred to the fact that Santa Fe does not make as much of its advantages as it might; in fact, that many of its own people are perhaps unacquainted with the city's attractions for tourists and students. He pointed to the fact that n Santa Fe churches and church insticutions there are paintings by Italian artists of the thirteenth century which would delight the heart of any artist or connoisseur. These paintings should be catalogued and the place indicated where they may be found. Few other cities in the United States can boast of art treasures of that kind. Then, too a convenient pamphlet should give a list of the historic spots in the city. No: only the few well known line the old palace and San Miguel church, but many of the less known historic relics and associations with which Santa Fe abounds, and of which it possesses more than any other city of the Union. Other places in the territory should do likewise in cataloguing their attractions for the tourist, and as an advertisement to draw visitors. Santa Fe is fortunate in having the cliff dwellings so near, but it does not make enough of them. The same may be said of other attractions and places of interest in and around the capital. An illustrated publication, say of fifty or sixty pages, setting forth these points and printed for distribution among visitors, would be a good advertisement and of great advaninge to the capital city.

Under the Davis amendment the United States will not be bound, if engaged in war, to permit a hostile fleet, if it succeeds to get inside of the three-mile zone, to pass unmolested through the canal. That destroys the neutrality of the canal, and makes it a belligerent highway. It gives to the enemy the same right that is reserved to the United States-that is, the right of naval attack in the canal or on the sea within three miles of either terminus. Moreover, if the channel is not neutralized. American shipping will be there the legitimate prey of hostile cruisers, and even the canal itself may be blocked, damaged or destroyed by an enemy. ### TOBACCO GROWING.

An Experiment That Should be Given ___ Trial in New Mexico.

An experiment in tobacco growing that should be given a trial in new Mexico has proved very successful at an agricultural experiment station in Connecticut. The official account is as follows:

Milton Whitney, chief of division of solls, reports a successful termination of experiments conducted in co-operaion with the Connecticut experimentation in the production of Sumstra obacco near Hartford on one-third of n acre planted under a cheese cloth i eet high and cultivated and fermented inder the direction of M. L. Floyd, to acco expert of the department. The fold of cured tobacco was 600 p.unds making an estimated yield for one acre f 2100 pounds. This lost about 10 per ent in the fermentation.

The crop has just been sold by L. B daas & Co., of Hartford, to Michaelson Hibbard, of Kansas City, for $473.70, making an estimated value for one acre of $1421. The cost of production, includng the whole cost of the shade-the rame for which will last five yearswill not exceed $500 per acre, leaving : net profit of over $900 per acre. This was in average price of 71 cents per pound the crop grown in the same field, without shade, and fermented in the sam way, yielded about the same quantity and brought 27 cents per pound, or a the rate of $507.87 per acre. Deducting ost of cultivation, this would leave a profit of about $300 per acre. The ordipary crop of the Connecticut valley orings the farmer about 20 cents per bound, or $360 per acre, and deducting he cost of expenses, leaves a profit of thout $260 per acre. The Sumatra tobacco grown under shade has been submitted to New York and Philadelphia business men, and has een pronounced satisfactory and fully equal to imported Sumatra. These facts -taken in connection with the award at the Paris exposition of two points for he Florida grown Sumatra over that given for the imported Sumatra-show hat we can grow Sumatra tobacco of he highest quality in this country and ave our farmers between $6,000,000 and 7,000,000, which is now sent abroad anqually for the foreign grown leaf. This work is the result of the soil survey made in the Connecticut valley two expected only from similar areas where the soils and climatic conditions are similar to those in the Connecticut valev and in Florida.

AN IDEAL STOCK REGION.

The Pecos Valley Makes a Specialty of Fattening Cattle.

J. C. Charless, a prominent stock man said that the time is but a very few years distant when the Peccs valley around Roswell and Carlsbad will send o eastern butcher blocks 50,000 head of nome-fattened 3-year-old steers, and at least 100,000 head of home-fattenc-l mut-

"You see," continued Mr. Charless, "the Pecos valley has two great resources in the home-fattening of beef branches as follows: and mutton, viz: The luxuriant growth of home-raised alfalfa and the short haul and cheap shipment of corn from Kansas over the Southern Kansas and Denver, also with narrow gauge for Texas railroad and the Peces Valley Monte Vista, Del Norte and Denver railroad-the connection being made at Amarillo Tex. Alfalfa produced this year five cuttings with an aggregate of six or seven tons per acre. The home fattening of a 3-year-old native Pecos At Florence with F. & C. C. R. R. for fattening of a 3-year-old native Pecos valley steer-Hereford or Shorthorn strain_will consume alfalfa and corn in equal fattening portion-the cost of such feeding, conservatively stated, being from $20 to $25, with a freight rate to market of $3 per head. One of these home-fattened Pecos valley native 3 year-old steers will weigh out in east ern markets at an average of 1200 pounds, and will bring from $55 to $60 per head. Eastern market home-fed mutton can be placed in proportion or similar rates. "Owing to the double irrigation advantage enjoyed by the Pecos valley of artesian well and canal, alfa!fa cultivation is rapidly increasing, and must shortly reach a producing area which and fattening harvest for the home the entire native beef steer growth of the region.

"J. J. Hagerman, president of the Pecos Valley railroad system, is now fattening 2000 head of valley steers, while nome-fed lambs, weighing out 80 pounds and upward, have topped the astern market this year."

It is a mistake to take any and every kind of medicine when you are sick. There is danger in it. Most of the so-called cures for "female weakness" do nothing more than deaden the pain temporarily, and when the effect wears away the patient is weaker and sicker than before. It is never wise to take chances. You have only one life, and that is dear and precious. If you have any pain, ache, disorder or weakness in the feminine organs, nothing will help you like Wine of Cardui. It helps do away with morning sickness during the early stages of pregnancy, and modifies the pains of childbirth; recovery is rapid and future health is assured. The Wine is purely vegetable, being made of herbs whose medicinal properties act directly upon the organs of womanhood. It is a long-tried remedy, and has many years of success behind it. It
